Genetic Engineering & Biotechnology News (GEN)

John Sterling

Vol 35 • 21 issues

Genetic Engineering & Biotechnology News (GEN) is the most widely read biotechnology publication around the globe. GEN's unique news and technology focus covers the bioproduct life cycle from early-stage R&D, to applied research including omics, biomarkers, as well as diagnostics, to bioprocessing and commercialization.

GEN's exclusive content includes industry-standard tutorials and technical articles in bioprocessing, assays, and drug discovery; feature articles on emerging technologies; product roundups and regional biofocus articles on biotech hotbeds; as well as reports from key scientific and industry meetings.

Available on the fully searchable online platform:
• COUNTER 3 compliance
• Unlimited, simultaneous access
• Multiple ways of searching and cross-referencing
• Authenticated mobile access via Liebert for Mobile (L4M)
• 21 issues per year
• Complete archival content: coverage on drug discovery, bioprocessing, OMICS, biobusiness, and translational medicine

A message from Editor-in-Chief John Sterling:
“Provide your patrons with the best in biotech by becoming an institutional subscriber to Genetic Engineering & Biotechnology News (GEN). Why? Because biotechnology is more than biology. Biotech research also encompasses chemistry, engineering, mathematics, computer science, physics, and environmental science. Today, GEN continues to serve as the go-to publication for information on the newest tools, techniques, and approaches impacting the entire new drug discovery, development, and biomanufacturing process. Your subscription will find an eager audience among these and other departments. Subscribe to GEN now and take a step into the future of biotechnology!”

NEW! GEN Touch
GEN subscribers can now access the latest biotech news and insights on their smart phone or tablet! The fields of life science are full of biological breakthroughs, technological advances and rapid change. But now, staying connected to the latest news is just a few taps away. We’ve designed versions for quick and easy reading on Apple and Android devices, to help you stay in the know wherever you go.

ASSAY and Drug Development Technologies

Andrew D. Napper, PhD

Vol 13 • 10 issues

This high-impact journal provides comprehensive coverage of cutting-edge early-stage screening techniques, tools, and applications that optimize the identification of novel leads and targets for new drug development. Topics include assay design and target development; lab automation and sample management; bioinformatics and virtual screening; biosensors and detection technologies; metabolically engineered cells and organisms; and a Patent Watch.

Drug Repurposing, Rescue, and Repositioning

Aris Persidis
Hermann Mucke

Vol 1 • 4 issues

The first peer-reviewed journal exclusively dedicated to techniques and tools for finding new uses for approved drugs – particularly for disorders where no animal model, physiologic abnormality, biochemical pathway, or molecular target has been identified. The Journal publishes comprehensive and timely world-class material, and facilitates efforts between leaders involved in scientific, technical, legal, and regulatory developments.

Industrial Biotechnology

Glenn E. Nedwin, PhD, MoT
Larry P. Walker, PhD

Vol 11 • 6 issues

The leading international journal focused on biotechnology-based industrial and environmental bioproducts and biobased processes. IB is the first and longest-running journal to present original peer-reviewed research on the science, business, and policy developments of the emerging global bioeconomy, bridging basic R&D with later-stage commercialization.

Human Gene Therapy, HGT Methods, and HGT Clinical Development

James M. Wilson, MD, PhD
Thierry VandenDriessche, PhD, Deputy Editor
Mark A. Kay, MD, PhD, Human Gene Therapy Editor
Hildegard Büning, PhD, Methods Editor
Barry J. Byrne, MD, PhD, Clinical Development Editor

Human Gene Therapy is the premier, multidisciplinary journal covering all aspects of human gene therapy, including DNA, RNA, and cell therapies. The Journal is divided into three parts providing unprecedented access to essential research, technologies, translation, and applications to promote the development of gene therapy products into effective therapeutics for treating human disease.

Human Gene Therapy, the flagship, provides 12 issues of original investigations into the transfer and expression of genes and improvements in vector development, delivery systems, and animal models, including cancer, AIDS, heart disease, genetic disease, neurological disease, and more.

Human Gene Therapy Methods, a bimonthly journal, publishes technological advances in cell and gene therapy that promote the development of gene therapy products into successful therapeutics. The Journal breaks new ground as the first to exclusively focus on the applications of gene therapy to product testing and development.

Human Gene Therapy Clinical Development, a quarterly journal, serves as a venue for publishing data relevant to the regulatory review and commercial development of cell and gene therapy products.

Official Journal of nine international societies including the European Society for Gene and Cell Therapy.

Sorin Istrail, PhD
Michael S. Waterman, PhD  Vol 22 • 12 issues

Journal of Interferon & Cytokine Research
Ganes C. Sen, PhD
Thomas A. Hamilton, PhD  Vol 35 • 12 issues
The leading journal dedicated to the latest in-depth coverage and advances in both the basic science and clinical phases of the cytokine network. Topics include genetics and gene expression, antimicrobial and antiviral activities, tumor biology, molecular and cell biology, neuroscience, immunodeficiencies, AIDS, and cancer. An Official Journal of the International Cytokine & Interferon Society. Peer-reviewed  www.liebertpub.com/jir
Journal of Medicinal Food
Sampath Parthasarathy, MBA, PhD
Young-Eun Lee, PhD, Editor-in-Chief, Asia
Vol 18 • 12 issues
This international journal delivers original research on the chemistry and biochemistry of the bioactive constituents of food, and substantiates their efficacy, safety, and potential uses to promote health and disease prevention. The Official Journal of the Korean Society of Food Science and Nutrition.

Tissue Engineering, Parts A, B, & C

Antonios G. Mikos, PhD
Peter C. Johnson, MD
John P. Fisher, PhD (Part B)
John A. Jansen, DDS, PhD (Part C)

Vol 21 • 42 issues

This preeminent, internationally renowned journal focuses on the engineering and applications of new biologic tissues, with the goal of bioengineering replacement of tissue and organs. Multidisciplinary in scope, Tissue Engineering is divided into three parts bringing together the principles of engineering and life sciences in tissue development and regenerative medicine.

Tissue Engineering, Part A, the flagship, provides 24 issues of in-depth coverage on novel biomaterials, nanobiotechnology, cell transplantation, polymer scaffolding, biohybrid organs, blood substitutes, and much more.

Tissue Engineering, Part B: Reviews publishes 6 issues that meet the urgent need for high-quality review articles and publishes critical discussions, analyses, and concise summaries of research to assess where we are now, and future directions.

Tissue Engineering, Part C: Methods provides 12 issues to present more procedures and protocols that will be adopted by the tissue engineering community as the research is translated into clinical applications. Authoritative articles bring consistency to the research methods employed and help the field grow and mature.

The Official Journal of the Tissue Engineering and Regenerative Medicine International Society.
